In The Unfettered Urologist the reader will learn and benefit from the opinions, intuition, common sense, and many years of experience of the author. They will learn what Dr. Boone always wanted to tell her patients but could never pack the information into the fifteen-minute office visit.

Many patients have left a doctor's office feeling frustrated that there was not enough time for all of their questions. The feeling that the doctor was hurried during the visit and might have omitted helpful information for the sake of brevity is a common notion. Patients want to discuss alternative therapies outside of conventional medicine and need time to discuss the details of their internet search.
